

just married

katie & dylan

JULY 9, PACIFIC PALISADES

INGREDIENTS

Photography by Jack Slomovits Photographs at the Bel-Air Bay Club; event planning by Kristin Banta Weddings & Special Events in Los Angeles; flowers by Apropos Floral & Event Design in Beverly Hills

When Katherine (Katie) Wiseley and Dylan Palmer met at the Rhode Island School of Design, both were studying glassmaking and became friends, but never really had the chance to connect. That all changed, however, when Katie (now a 26-year-old art teacher) began grad school and Dylan (now a 32-year-old artist, teacher, and business owner) found Katie on Friendster.com and sent a message to catch up. The two soon made plans to go to a concert together, along with dinner before the show. Dinner went off without a hitch, and the pair became increasingly closer as the evening went on and during the concert. "The show started, and we both were kind of listening to the music," Katie says, and "by the time the main act came on stage, Dylan and I were kissing." Dylan proposed two-and-a-half years later. —M.S.

Find more details on these weddings at TheKnot.com/southerncalifornia